《解答例》

If I were to go to Arumirom Island, I would bring a lighter to make a fire. Making a fire is important for survival.

A fire is needed to prepare meals. Seawater is drinkable if boiled, and I can cook fish and plants on the fire.

Also, smoke rising into the air can be seen as a sign of SOS in case of emergency. Some ships sailing by may see the smoke rising from the fire I made and come to rescue me.

A fire is necessary in many ways for living, but it would take time and effort to start a fire. To do that easily, I need a lighter to survive on Arumirom Island. (118 words)
